Paul and the Praetorian Guard According to Acts, Chapter 28, the Centurion Julius gave custody of Paul to the "chief of the soldiers" who was probably the commander of the Praetorian Guard. This is consistent with what is known from Roman history, since the Praetorian Guard was in charge of prisoners sent to Rome from the outside provinces.

The famed Praetorian Guards (or cohortes praetoriae) constitute a unique parcel of ancient Roman military history. In many ways, alluding to the proverbial scope of 'too much power leads to corruption', the Praetorians started out as a prestigious bodyguard unit loyal to the Roman general and leader.

The Praetorian Guard is one of the most famous military units in history. They were known as elite Roman soldiers, sworn to protect the emperor for hundreds of years. They were feared by the people and even by the emperors themselves, who often went to great lengths to gain the praetorians' favor.

Conceived as a personal army for the emperor, the elite Praetorian Guard soon took over a wide range of powers in Rome, and thus from the very beginning made a much greater impact on the city's life than just as an imperial bodyguard.

Inseparable from the machinery of the Roman state, the Praetorians had the power to make or break individual emperors. In The Praetorian Guard, Sandra Bingham offers a comprehensive and timely history of this elite military unit, from its foundation by Augustus in 27 BCE to its disbandment by Constantine in 312 CE.

And perhaps no special force commands the romance, the mystique or the enduring appeal of ancient Rome's thoroughbred protection and counter-insurgency squadron: the renowned Praetorian Guard. This elite military unit existed for over 300 years.

Sandra Bingham's The Praetorian Guard considers how the Roman elite military unit shaped Roman history, protecting, counseling, removing and replacing various emperors. Bingham neatly explains the history of the Guard, detailing the forerunners of the unit in republican Rome, such as the private cohorts of Sulla, Marius, Catiline, and even Cicero himself.
